

Journal serving the whole brewing sector and the beverage industry

This professional English-language brewing journal is aimed at providing a forum to exchange experience and knowledge in all areas of brewing and malting, not just by publishing technical articles by research institutes, but also through reports from suppliers and above all by contributions from actual factory situations. Our main objective is to provide a suitable platform for concerned with brewing to achieve world-wide technology transfer in the brewing industry.

Editorial Concept

BRAUWELT International newsletter: All subscribers to any of the international issues of BRAUWELT will receive the monthly BRAUWELT International newsletter in English by e-mail containing all internationally relevant news on the global beverage industry (International Report authored by Dr. Ina Verstl), together with the respective market data and new developments.

In addition you will receive now the News flash – late-breaking news directly on your screen twice a month.
